Bravo! Vail's 2016-2017 After-School Piano Program Enrollment Open

Vail, CO – Bravo! Vail’s After-School Piano Program kicks off its 2016-2017 enrollment today through August 26. The Program takes place at eight locations throughout Eagle and Lake Counties. The After-School Piano Program offers children grades 1 through 8 the opportunity to learn fundamental musical concepts and basic music reading skills. The weekly 45 minute long sessions take place after-school from September through May. Class sizes are kept small to ensure individualized attention for each student, and the lessons are taught by accomplished piano teachers under direction of Bravo! Vail’s Education and Community Engagement Coordinator, Keelin Davis.

About the Program
Bravo! Vail is dedicated to enriching people’s lives through the power of music by not only producing the finest performances at the summer festival, but also fostering music education and promoting a life-long appreciation of the arts through the After-School Piano Program.

The Piano Program, now in its seventh year, has grown exponentially since its inception and now serves around 120 students throughout the year while providing scholarship support and instrument loans to around 45% of attendees.

The Piano Program is available to all interested students with a minimal $125 fee for 30 classes. Through the efforts of Bravo! Vail and generous donors, scholarships are available on an as needed basis. The Piano Program has become Bravo! Vail's flagship education program during the academic year.

“Bravo! Vail is committed to continually growing its music education programs to best fit the needs of Vail Valley students. The 2016-2017 Piano Program kicks-off in September with extended class times and a redesigned curriculum to best meet each student's ability. Did You Know?
Benefits of Piano Lessons

Concentration - Reading music requires total concentration. While playing the piano, the student must concentrate on reading two lines of music, while using ten fingers, both ears, and one foot. Learning to play the piano allows a child to exercise all these skills in a constructive manner.

Hand-eye Coordination - Children who take piano lessons often perform better in sports because reading music develops hand-eye coordination.

Discipline - Through weekly piano lessons, consistent practice, and performance, students graduate to a higher level of self-discipline.

Creativity - Music inspires creative thinking and encourages children to explore their imagination.

Memory Development - Memorizing music involves visual, aural, analytical, and kinesthetic (muscle) memory.

Self-Confidence - Performing on the piano in front of a teacher, a family member, other students, or an audience instills confidence and helps a child to overcome shyness.

Sociability - Piano lessons encourage a child to reach out toward new friendships by sharing a mutual interest in piano or performing the piano in front of peers. Piano lessons help children to gain the confidence needed to grasp opportunities for social interactions.

Improves Study Habits - Playing the piano is a step-by-step process which teaches a child to set goals and how to accomplish them.

Gaining a Lifelong Skill - Once a student learns to simultaneously read music and play the piano, they may carry this skill and derive great enjoyment from it for life.
